ABSTRACT

Intended to share information about specialized training and demonstration activities from a rich diversity of local subject interests, environments, and populations served, this guide is a compilation of adult education and literacy resources funded under the Adult Education Act. Information is provided on 276 projects funded under Section 353 of the act. Entries are categorized as follows: adult education program management; adults with disabilities; competency-based adult education; corrections education; English as a Second Language; evaluation/assessment; family literacy; general educational development; life skills; literacy; older persons; staff development; teacher education; teaching writing; technology/computer assisted instruction; volunteers in adult education; and workplace literacy/work force literacy. Each entry includes a description of the activity and availability information, including source, address, telephone number(s), and order number. Order forms for ERIC and Division of Adult Education and Literacy Clearinghouse documents are attached. (YLB)

INTRODUCTION

A Guide to Special Demonstration and Teacher Education Projects: Special Answers for Special Needs is a compilation of adult education and literacy resources funded under the Adult Education Act. Under requirements of Section 353 of the Act, States allot a minimum of 15% of their total grant funds to support teacher training and special demonstration projects. These projects fund a major part of local and state-wide training for adult education programs, and they support an array of special experimental and demonstration activities designed to improve the effectiveness of program instruction and services.

In recent years, an increased focus on professional development as a means of improving the quality of adult education programs has heightened interest in the availability of new instructional resources. This Guide is intended to share information about specialized training and demonstration activities from a rich diversity of local subject interests, environments, and populations served.

While the topical interests for information about resources vary widely from year to year, recently we have noted a steady growth of interest in innovative practices and materials related to workplace literacy, family literacy, adults with disabilities, English as a Second Language and instructional technology. All of these areas, among others listed in the Table of Contents, are included in the Guide and list new entries that may be helpful in the search for "answers" to a variety of instructional and training needs.

In order to provide an annual up-date of this Guide, we rely on States sending their final reports of products from 353 activities to the U.S. Department of Education. All of the reports and products that are received are reviewed and evaluated by staff members in the Division of Adult Education and Literacy and, assisted by others as needed. Based on established criteria, innovative and potentially adaptable projects are selected for the Guide. This updated version will provide information about those completed projects for others to use and adapt as necessary to them.

We thank those projects staff and State Directors who developed, packaged and sent in their final reports and products in a timely way to assist in the production of the publication.

HOW TO ORDER PROJECT MATERIALS

Information about items listed in A Guide to Special Demonstration and Teacher Education Projects: Special Answers for Special Needs may be obtained from sources indicated after each project abstract.

Materials available from the Division of Adult Education and Literacy Clearinghouse, U.S. Department of Education, identified by an asterisk(*), followed by a Special Answers (SA) number are free of charge. (Order form is attached). 1992-93 () and 1993-94 () entries are recent additions to the Guide.

Some projects are available from the Educational Resources Information Center (ERIC). These projects have the notation, Also available from ERIC. A copy of ERIC's Order Form is attached as well.

ADULT EDUCATION PROGRAM MANAGEMENT

ABE CHILD CARE AND TRANSPORTATION SUPPORT SERVICES WORKBOOK

This workbook provides ABE program administrators a mechanism for developing an implementation plan to set up child care and transportation services for ABE students. Each chapter addresses a particular aspect of providing these services: surveying needs, identifying barriers, defining strategies, developing interagency coordination, and putting it all together in an appropriate, workable, community-based plan. At the end of each chapter, a worksheet is provided for completing suggested tasks. Readers are encouraged, at the conclusion of a chapter, to cut out the worksheet and use it to address needs, barriers, and strategies that reflect the local ABE program. This "learn-by-doing" approach should result in an implementation plan, unique to the local program, that addresses the provision of support services to ABE students.

MARKETING YOUR ADULT LITERACY PROGRAM MANUAL

The New York-You Can Read campaign was designed to enable adult educators to market their services better and to reach students who are not currently served. This "how to" manual has been used as part of a two-day workshop, but is also instructive for any adult educator planning a literacy campaign. It covers the basics of marketing, planning a marketing campaign, identifying resources, and evaluating the effort.

MOTIVATION

A manual was developed from this project to assist adult education and literacy programs in implementing and expanding services to the adult learner. Included in the manual are competency-based adult education learning guides for instructors to set up a motivational training course for ABE students. Seven topics of interest are included: values, goal setting, communication and listening, attitudes and job behavior, employability skills, stress management, and decision making. Pre- and post-tests are included in each learning guide. Suggested motivational films and videos are also included.

PROJECT MAPP MANAGEMENT MANUAL

The purpose of the Project MAPP (Maryland Adult Performance Program) Management Manual was to provide program personnel with a reference tool to assist in developing and implementing a process of competency-based adult education (CBAE) in adult basic education (ABE) programs. This manual not only addresses program components that are important to managers, but student related activities that are essential to both managers and instructors who provide CBAE. The first chapter Rationale presents adult learner characteristics and the reasons why a CBAE approach is preferable to a conventional adult education approach. The second chapter Program Components discusses essential concerns. Chapter three Student Activity Flow is centered on the management of student related activities from program intake, through instruction, to exit using a CBAE approach. The fourth chapter focuses on expectations fulfillment during the piloting phases, and chapter five Appendices provides additional resource information including a glossary, bibliography, the Project MAPP Implementation Plan, and a directory of Project MAPP personnel.

ADULTS WITH DISABILITIES

ABE/GED PROGRAMS FOR DISABLED ADULTS

The purpose of this project was to develop a handbook for literacy tutors and instructors who teach adults with disabilities. The handbook is a compilation of information about various handicapping conditions and suggestions for working with students who have disabilities, including those with hearing acuity problems, visual impairments, speech and language impairments, learning disabilities, orthopedic impairments, and epilepsy. The handbook also includes a directory of resources and a bibliography.

BRIDGING THE GAP

This project was designed to meet the unique literacy needs of developmentally disabled adults. Bridging the Gap provided literacy training to developmentally disabled adults who were competitively employed through a locally supported employment program. Many of these individuals were not successful on the job because they lacked the necessary academic skills to perform their job responsibilities. The on-the-job teacher model is the core component of Bridging the Gap. It serves as the bridge between employees, employers, job coaches and adult basic education teachers by providing instruction at the job site in academic, social and/or independent living skills necessary for job success.

A manual is available that provides instructional goals, learning objectives and sample learning activities that were developed for use in classes targeted to support employees.

CHALLENGE AND CHANGE

The purpose of this project is to prepare a guide and manual to train adult education instructors on techniques and approaches to use when teaching deaf adults. The guide and manual cover a variety of topics, including the major differences in teaching deaf adults from other adults, how to develop language and communication skills, and the role of the interpreter in the classroom. A guide and manual entitled Adult Education: The Deaf Experience and the overheads to accompany both are included.

CHARACTERISTICS AND INSTRUCTIONAL STRATEGIES FOR ADULTS WITH LEARNING DISABILITIES

This project developed instructional videotapes combined with print materials that will familiarize viewers with the traits and behaviors typically found among adults with moderate to severe learning disabilities. It also focuses on methods for accommodating or compensating for the presence of learning disabilities among adults. The intent of the project is to help instructors in Adult Basic Education/G.E.D. programs to work more effectively with their adult students who possess moderate to severe learning disabilities. Two 1/2 inch 30 minute color videotapes with printed materials are available to assist the instructors.

CLIENT MENTAL HEALTH ISSUES

The project addresses the growing need for ABE instructors to understand the special needs of clients suffering from mental health problems. An Adult Education and Job Training Center in Lewistown, Pennsylvania implemented four workshops which provided training on crisis situations, suicide threats and attempts, issues in mental health, and substance abuse and violence. A report derived from this implementation contains four training outlines reflecting the content of the four workshops and documents the entire project.

CURRICULUM DEVELOPMENT FOR THE DEAF ADULT BASIC EDUCATION LEARNERS

The Deafness Education Advocacy Foundation developed a comprehensive cultural curriculum on three subject areas: (1) Living with Loss, (2) Communication, and (3) Law and the Deaf. These topics were based on feedback from the deaf community, extensive networking within the deaf community and with professionals in the field of adult basic education. The curriculum was designed as a tool to expand the opportunities for deaf adults to increase their English literacy skills and simultaneously develop critical thinking skills based on real world information. This curriculum will be useful for adult educators and literacy providers and instructors of deaf adults.

DEAF ADULT LITERACY TUTOR HANDBOOK

This project, developed at the Pennsylvania School for the Deaf, produced a Tutor Training Handbook to meet the needs of tutors working with the deaf adult literacy students. The handbook has been used as part of a training program and focuses on the unique needs of the deaf adult. It contains teaching strategies and lists other materials helpful in working with the deaf adult learner.

The Deaf Literacy Handbook will be useful to individuals working with deaf adult literacy students, and is available to any individual or agency currently providing or requesting information about literacy services to deaf adults.

DEAF LITERACY PROGRAM

Brown University in Providence, Rhode Island developed this project. Its purpose was to address the educational needs of deaf and hearing impaired adult learners. Instruction focused on improving deaf adults' skills in communication and self-expression, gathering information, and accessing community and employment related resources. Program structure and design stemmed from the idea that sign language is an independent language of the deaf which carries an independent deaf culture. Classes were based on a model of bilingual education; the teachers were deaf-native speakers of American Sign Language, and all instruction was provided in sign language.

The results of this project are available in the form of a working paper which discusses the appropriate instructional strategies and materials which will be useful to teach deaf and hearing impaired adult learners.

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS OF ALTERNATIVE TEACHING METHODS

This project was conducted at the Reading Area Community College in Reading, Pennsylvania. The project used alternate teaching methods in small-group teaching situations to enable learning disabled students to find practical success in reading, writing and math skills. It also helped learning disabled students to develop self-esteem and provided a positive learning environment where GED achievement became a realistic goal for those who felt it was not possible in the past.

The method and results of this project are described in the final report. This project will be useful for adult educators and literacy programs, or other groups in assisting their learning disabled students.

REAL LIFE READERS: SHORT STORIES FOR THE MENTALLY DISABLED READER

Elwyn Southeast Rehabilitation Center in Pennsylvania, conducted this project. It addresses the adult basic and literacy needs of the mentally disabled population. They are among the most motivated participants in ABE/Literacy programs, yet, these students do not have sufficiently appropriate reading materials for their age or life needs.

The project produced a two-volume anthology of short stories: Book One - At Home and Book Two - Going to Work. The Teacher's Guide contains all of the stories, worksheets, analysis, and structure for each story.

STRATEGIES FOR TEACHING ADULTS WITH LEARNING DISABILITIES

The purposes of this project were to develop materials and a screening instrument to determine if characteristics common to those with learning difficulties are present in adults in ABE programs and, if so, to prescribe specific materials and methods known to be successful in instructing such individuals. The project focuses on reading to fourth grade level. The Screening Test for Adult Learning Difficulties (STALD) is designed to be administered by supervisors, adult education teachers, or volunteer tutors within a time frame of 35 to 45 minutes.

TEACHING CEREBRAL PALSY ADULTS: A TUTOR TRAINING MANUAL

Tutors and instructors of adults are generally not trained to teach adults with cerebral palsy who have unique learning problems. This training manual, developed by Project LEARN staff in Denver, Colorado, will assist adult education instructors in teaching adults with cerebral palsy. It includes information on what cerebral palsy is and how to relate to persons with cerebral palsy, how to understand their unique needs, how to assess adults with cerebral palsy, and how to use an appropriate curriculum.

COMPETENCY-BASED ADULT EDUCATION

COMPETENCY-BASED ADULT EDUCATION CURRICULUM & TRAINING ADULT BASIC EDUCATION, ADULT HIGH SCHOOL COMPLETION

Brevard Community College in Florida has developed and revised a comprehensive instructional program that incorporates State mandated subject area competencies into CBAE models. Components of this CBAE program can be adopted as a total package or modified to suit local program needs. The curriculum is on IBM computer diskettes for loan to make duplicates. The following manuals can be purchased:

(1) CBAE Management Guide for Administrators, Teachers, Counselors is used as a primary resource for training those new to CBAE as it relates to administrative management of the program (1985 ed.). (ED 257972)

(2) CBAE Student Services Guide is used in training counselors and teachers (1985 ed.). (ED 270165)

(3) CBAE Classroom Management Guide is used in training the teacher or facilitator in CBAE learning procedures and classroom management (1986 ed.). (ED 270166)

(4) CBAE Level I & II Manual is used for training on CBAE and implementation of the CBABE Curriculum (1988 ed.) (ED 304191)

(5) CBAE High School Curriculum includes 42 high school credit courses separated into .5 credit units. These courses are on IBM computer diskettes (WordPerfect 5.1) and are available for loan to make duplicate copies. (Revised 1989-91 to meet the at-risk adult student's needs).

(6) CBAE Teacher/Facilitator Instructional Manual provides additional resources and tips on instructional techniques for each course. It is divided into Language Arts, Social Studies, Science, Mathematics, and Electives sections. (1991 ed.).

(7) CBAE Curriculum is divided into modules for Reading, Writing, and Math for Level I (0-5.9) and Level II (6.0-8.9) modules for Reading, Writing, Math, Science, Social Studies, Health and Consumer Education. (Available for loan on IBM computer diskette).

IDEAS THAT WORK: ABE ACTIVITIES AND RESOURCES FOR COMPETENCY BASED ADULT BASIC EDUCATION

This project was prepared by the Oregon CBE Curriculum Committee to aid in the exchange of ideas among instructors. The publication contains lesson plans and resources which have been effective both for instructional purposes and for providing fu. group interaction. Topics include: consumer economics, community resources, health, occupational knowledge, government, law, computation, writing, communication, and learning to learn. The project is an unfinished collection and it includes a form for instructors to submit ideas for future publication.

CORRECTIONS EDUCATION

A HANDBOOK FOR ESTABLISHING ADULT EDUCATION PROGRAMS IN COUNTY JAILS OF TEXAS

The purpose of this project was to develop a handbook to help adult education administrators plan ABE programs in county jails. The handbook covers the steps required to plan and implement an adult education program, including assistance in developing a student-centered curriculum. The handbook lists twelve steps required to establish an ABE program in a county jail.

This curriculum is intended to address diverse needs and includes items that students say they want and need. Subjects covered include job training, problem solving, drug abuse, interpersonal relationships, and consumer education.

Northampton Community College and Northampton County Prison developed this program for fathers incarcerated at the prison to break the cycle of intergenerational illiteracy. Fathers received instruction in ABE/ESL/GED and parenting. While the fathers spent time with their children in bi-weekly visitation sessions, the children's primary caretaker received parenting instruction. Home visits by the family liaison worker, tutoring by volunteers, and classes for parolees were also part of the project. A WRITING/COMMUNICATIONS CURRICULUM FOR INCARCERATED ADULTS

This Curriculum for Incarcerated Adults, was developed by the Schuylkill Intermediate Unit #29 in Mar Lin, Pennsylvania. The main goal of the project was to improve writing and communication skills by using community service as a motivation. Inmates enter the program with the intention of contributing to the publication of a handbook composed of their original writings. The curriculum encourages inmates who have drug and\or alcohol problems to reach out to at-risk youth by sharing their experiences and seeks to demonstrate that proper writing can be used to help society. The curriculum includes a set of lesson plans, sample recruitment flyer, self-evaluation and community service surveys, and sample stories written by inmates. A copy of the handbook Learn from Us, written by the inmates, is also available.

ABE/ESL ASSESSMENT PROJECT

The Northwest Regional Educational Laboratories, Portland, Oregon, as part of the process of developing an assessment system under contract for the Washington State Adult Basic Education/English as a Second Language programs, prepared three products: Annotated Bibliography, Results of Field Research, and Summary Report.

The Annotated Bibliography on ABE/ESL Assessment is divided into four sections and an appendix. The first section is a review of the materials found through the Educational Resources Information Center (ERIC) and Northwest Regional Educational Laboratories (NWREL) and received from professional organizations in the field. Sections two, three, and four are updated bibliographies on alternative assessments. In addition, an annotated ABE/ESL bibliography taken from the Information Update, Vol. 4, No. 4 published by the Literacy Assistance Center in New York is included in the appendix.

RESULTS OF FIELD RESEARCH ABE/ESL ASSESSMENT

This report is part of the assessment model for Washington State Adult Basic Education (ABE) and English as a Second Language (ESL) programs. The report describes the results of interviews with key players, focus group discussions, and a questionnaire survey. Representatives from the Office of Adult Literacy, the Job Training and Partnership Act program, State Board for Community and Technical Colleges, and the Job Opportunities and Basic Skills program were interviewed. Focus Group discussions were on current assessment practices, needs, and issues at intake, and at the classroom and program levels. Individuals who responded to the questionnaire survey included adult learners, teachers, volunteers, and administrators.

ADULT EDUCATION ESL SELECTORS GUIDE: INSTRUCTIONAL RESOURCES FOR LIMITED ENGLISH SPEAKING ADULTS

The manual is intended to serve the needs of adult ESL instructors and supervisors. The Selector's Guide is a Catalog of Adult Education ESL materials, including information on literacy, citizenship, and life coping skills. The catalog is divided into three sections. Section I consists of evaluations of 27 instructional systems; Section II has evaluations of 148 supplementary materials; and Section III contains appendices and a list of publishers, video teacher training programs, video and computer instructional programs, citizenship materials, ESL testing materials, and an outline of native language literacy. Each evaluation includes a checklist of skills and general information, and a narrative section describing the lesson format, content, and overall evaluation. Field test information for the materials is found following the evaluation of the specific title.

BRIDGES TO ACADEMIC WRITING

Oakton Community College in Des Plaines, Illinois developed a special composition course, Bridges to Academic Writing, to help high intermediate level adults of limited English proficiency make the transition from survival skills to college level ESL composition courses. The course is designed to instruct students on academic life and ease their adjustment to it. The authors recommend that the materials be used in conjunction with a grammar text. The composition exercises progress step by step from recognition to controlled writing to independent writing. Students are taught basic sentence patterns before moving into paragraphs. The course content includes four units: Simple and Compound Sentences, Basic Complex Sentences, Getting Ready to Write Paragraphs and Composing Paragraphs. Units 3 and 4 on Getting Ready to Write Paragraphs and Composing Paragraphs were field tested and revised as the result of the testing. Some of the topics included in the four units are: The First Day of Class, Rules and Expectations of Instruction, Classroom Conduct, Study Habits, and Student Services.

THE CULTURAL LITERACY HANDBOOK

The handbook was produced by the South Hills Literacy Improvement Center, Bethel Park School District in Pennsylvania. It is designed to assist limited English proficient students with understanding and using American idioms. The 110 American idioms are grouped according to their most common uses: business, personal, or general situation. At the top of each page is a sentence using an idiom and an illustration of what the idiom seems to mean. At the bottom of the page is an illustration of what the idiom really means, and a sentence for the student to complete using the idiom.

Based on the results of field tests, it was determined that the limited English proficient students who would most benefit from the use of this book are those who have higher than a very basic knowledge of English because they need to be able to understand the explanations of the idioms. Suggestions on how to use this handbook are provided in the text.

DETERMINING READING LEVELS FOR NON-NATIVE SPEAKERS OF ENGLISH

The Adult Educational Development Department of William Rainey Harper College in Palatine, Illinois with the cooperation of staff at the Illinois Adult English as Second Language Center engaged in a research project to conduct correlation studies between adult ESL and adult basic education reading tests. The major goal of the project was to determine reading levels for non-native speakers of English for purposes of reporting progress to employers and funding agencies.

The College of Lake County, Elgin Community College, Oakton MONNACE, and the ESL Program of Township High School District 214, along with William Rainey Harper College, were the sites where combinations of four tests were administered to adult students. The four tests used for the study were: Tests of English Proficiency Level (TEPL)-ESL, English Language Skills Assessment (ELSA)-ESL, Test of Adult Basic Education (TABE)-ABE-GED, and the Adult Basic Learning Examination (ABLE)-ABE-GED. The project established a framework for additional research in the assessment of reading comprehension. The report describes the methods, subjects, activities, and findings of the study.

The Center for Literacy in Philadelphia developed a manual, "I Don't Speak English...But I Understand You." The manual was designed to improve Hispanic speaking, writing, reading, and listening skills in a community-based adult English as a Second Language program. The manual is divided into different units: Where We Need to Speak English, Housing, Cultural Differences, Work, Drugs and Family Values, and Responsibilities--Parenting and Aging. The units in the manual emerged from issues that the students shared in class. Real life activities are presented in a variety of ways emphasizing pronunciation, vocabulary, listening and writing, reading, and comprehension skills. The manual can be used as a resource guide to supplement classroom materials or used as a model for students and teachers to develop new materials.

INDIAN POTENTIAL ON THE MOVE

This project addresses the needs of the adult Miccosukee Indian community in Miami, Florida. The Miccosukee Adult Education program works closely with the Vocational Education program in the State. Career counseling, education counseling, substance abuse, and vocational and employment training are services available to Adult Education students. The program is flexible in its effort to recruit students who are at a high risk of dropping out of school, and those who are least educated and most in need. In addition, the program assists minors who were not enrolled in high school or have not received a high school diploma. Previous GED graduates also received assistance in advanced studies.

INTERNATIONAL BOOKLET OF RECIPES AND STORIES

Fayette County Community Action Agency, Inc. Education's Center in Pennsylvania developed this booklet. It is designed to encourage limited English proficient students at the Center to maintain their cultural heritage while learning about other cultures and the English language. It is also designed to increase cultural awareness and community outreach. Students submitted recipes and stories related to their ethnic backgrounds and those stories were discussed in class. Students were also exposed to word processing and composed artwork to accompany the recipes and stories. The table of contents includes chapters on Main Dishes, Breads, Soups/Side Dishes, and Desserts. Helpful Hints, Cooking Tips, Microwave Hints, Calorie Counter, and Terms used in Cooking are some of the topics covered in the cookbook.

REFUGEE WOMEN'S ALLIANCE FAMILY STORY CURRICULUM GUIDE

The Refugee Women's Alliance Family Story Guide was developed in Seattle, Washington with the mission of helping refugee women achieve self-sufficiency in America. The Family Story curriculum was developed to use in three ESL classes: Pre-Literate, Even Start, and Family Talk. The curriculum materials were designed to increase self-esteem, cultural adjustment, and language skills of the participants. In addition, the materials helped to bridge the cultural and generational gap between newcomers and their American-raised children.

The guide is divided into various sections: Training, Oral History and Journal Writing, Pre-collection Activities, Collecting Stories, Follow-up ESL Activities and Conclusion. The guide can be used as a valuable staff development tool.

ROCK VALLEY COLLEGE PRIVATE SECTOR PARTNERSHIPS FOR ENGLISH LITERACY

Rock Valley College in cooperation with Rockford Area Literacy Council and the English Language Study Center at Rockford College in Illinois administered the Private Sector Partnerships for English Literacy project. The goal of the project was to recruit, provide tutoring, and offer classes for English as a Second Language literacy students at their place of employment. The project partners negotiated with management in fourteen companies, tested the workforce in two of the companies and provided classes for 106 ESL students in seven companies. All tuition, classroom space, textbooks, and, in some cases, work release time were funded by the private sector for 86 of the students. Strengths and problems observed in implementing this project are cited. A major strength of the project is the high participation level of limited English proficient workers. Objectives, activities, observations, assessment of workplace programs, and students comments are included in the report.

STAFF DEVELOPMENT GUIDES ON ENGLISH AS A SECOND LANGUAGE

Training guides and video cassettes were developed by staff members at San Francisco State University to provide background information and guidelines for incorporating the key elements of competency based adult education (CBAE) processes into the beginning and intermediate levels of English as a Second Language (ESL) classrooms. Both guides include information on: modes of instruction, video demonstration, lesson planning and time management, assessment and evaluation, and classroom support services. The emphasis of the video cassettes that accompany each guide is on effective teaching techniques and strategies for organizing instruction in a beginning or intermediate level ESL classroom. The guides may be used by one instructor or small groups of instructors on an individualized basis.

TELL ME ABOUT IT

La Salle University in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania developed a multi-cultural manual designed to give low income minority adult learners from diverse cultures an opportunity to build vocabulary, and to encourage written and oral communication in English. The reading and language activities are intended to be used in a group setting. The manual was field tested by both ABE and ESL students. Topics included in this manual not only give students the opportunity to speak and write about their own cultural experiences, but also give them the opportunity to increase their understanding of other cultures. National backgrounds of the students displayed in the readings range from Jamaican to Cambodian to Angolan to African American. "Tell Me About It" can broaden an adult learner's perspective of other cultures.

WE'RE ALL IN THE SAME BOAT

The Urban Studies and Community Services Center of LaSalle University in Philadelphia developed a curriculum, We're All in the Same Boat. This is a multi-cultural and pre-vocational ESL curriculum designed for intermediate and advanced level ESL students. The field testing for intermediate and advanced level ESL students was done in a La Salle Urban Center ESL class, the Camden Learning Center, the refugee ESL classes in Camden, and in Project LEIF (Learning English Through Intergenerational Friendship).

The curriculum is divided into six units that give information about crime, poverty, and prejudice. Also, information on slavery and the Civil Rights movement, Hispanics in America (particularly Puerto Ricans) the history of immigration, the tensions between racial and ethnic groups, cultural and racial sensitivity, and safety and union issues are discussed. Many language activities (listening, speaking, writing, reading, grammar, idioms and vocabulary development) are presented in each chapter. Scenarios are offered in units 2 and 6. Illustrations in the manual will enhance a student's understanding of the subject matter taught as well as provide him or her with opportunities to use discussion and writing skills.

()FAMILY LITERACY FOR PARENTS IN BRIDGE HOUSING

Goodwill Industries of Pittsburgh and the Pittsburgh Literacy Initiative provided family literacy services to homeless parents of young children by taking the program directly into bridge housing sites where the families reside. The approach offered was the direct parent/indirect child model. The curriculum came from adaptations of previously published work along with materials developed by the instructors to reinforce the lessons. The project increased the amount of time that homeless parents residing in bridge housing facilities spent in independent literacy activities with their children. This report describes the objectives and instructional strategies of the project.

FAMILY LITERACY PROGRAMS TRAINING MANUAL

Kent State University developed a manual which provides nine one-hour training sessions related to components of family literacy programs. Each session may stand alone or be used in combination with any other. Content for the sessions represents topics and issues such as process of literacy learning, environment, reading and writing, children literature, language-experience and reading skills. Detailed plans for each session are described which also feature active participant involvement and sharing ideas. The concluding portion of the manual contains two bibliographies: parents and reading, and family literacy programs. A service for further learning as well as a sample evaluation form are given.

FAMILY LITERACY REPORT

This report, conducted by the Illinois Literacy Resource Development Center with support from the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation, explored the development of seven model family literacy programs. The purpose of the study is to determine the progress of year two programs, determine successful components and characteristics of the family literacy programs, and assist local programs in developing and implementing practical evaluation systems. A family literacy survey summary is included with each program.

HELP: HOME EDUCATION IN LITERACY AND PARENTING

The twofold purpose of the HELP project was to aid low income, low reading level parents in participating in the local ABE program and in learning how to help their children with school work. Both a guide book and resources for implementing a HELP project were developed. The guide includes a description of recruitment, training and placement of the in-home volunteer tutoring staff, community relationships, networking and plan for dissemination, and project implementation. Resources include the several forms and surveys used for project implementation, lesson plan suggestions, and resources for volunteers.

INTERGENERATIONAL LITERACY MODEL

This project developed a model and accompanying implementation strategies for involving parents and the community in attacking the problem of illiteracy. A handbook was also developed which includes a core curriculum that delineates the model components and implementation strategies for purposes of replications in other communities. The project provides literacy instruction for parents of pre-school and primary school aged children, provides suggestions of consistent, on-going activities for parents to do with their children at home, and encourages the parents of young children to seek literacy instruction on an individual basis at least once a week.

LEARN TOGETHER

The Center for Literacy in Philadelphia developed and field tested a booklet entitled LEARN TOGETHER - A Book for Parents and Children. The book was designed for low literacy level parents to learn the basics at the same time that their children are learning. The book is divided into four sections: pre-reading, reading, writing, and math. Activities are at the pre-kindergarten to grade 3 levels. Materials needed, purpose, directions, and a sample page are given for each activity. Learn Together can also be used in ABE Programs for parents in providing a broader base for learning and a good opportunity to see how skills can be transferred from one place to another.

A MODEL FOR RURAL SCHOOLS TO INVOLVE PARENTS IN THE EDUCATION OF THEIR CHILDREN

This manual was developed by the Center for Community Education at Montana State University in cooperation with the Conrad Public Schools in Conrad Montana. Its goal was to involve parents residing in rural areas in the education of their children. Information in the manual gives a step by step process to develop the model. The model includes topics such as: what parents can do, what teachers can do, what principals can do, and how to get started. Additional resources include forms and tips for parent/teacher conferences, homework, home visits, ways volunteers can help as well as a listing of national organizations with related activities.

()PARENTING RESOURCE BOOK

This resource book was developed by the Center for Literacy in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. It was designed for use in family and other adult basic and literacy education (ABLE) programs. The Resource Book is divided into two parts. Part One consists of eleven chapters on subjects of interest to parents, including child development, discipline, health, pregnancy, safety, and values. Part Two is a list of reference materials for parents who choose to explore topics in depth. Although a few of the articles in the resource book discuss topics relevant to Philadelphia, the book can easily be adapted for use in other localities.

PARENTS AS TEACHERS PROJECT

Baltimore County Public Schools, Baltimore, Maryland designed and field tested training modules to help parents develop techniques to effectively read to their children, choose age appropriate books, go on field trips, choose toys, help with homework, and make and play games with their children. Parent/child interaction activities are designed to reinforce these targeted skills. One hundred thirty-one families attended family workshops and family nights. Parents from ABE classes and AFDC programs, and grandparents came with their granddaughters and low literacy level daughters, while 88 families came from shelters. Through this high retention rate project, modeling was the best teaching technique for the parents because many had no experience in the various activities.

Several booklets: Learning Style, Craft Idea, Self-Esteem, and How to Encourage your Children to Read were developed.

PROJECT PACT: PARENTS AND CHILDREN TOGETHER

Project PACT resulted in the development of a curriculum for 0-4 level ABE students at the Centre County Vocational-Technical School in Pleasant Gap, Pennsylvania. PACT materials are intended for use by ABE students who are parents or others who interact with children. The curriculum consists of lessons in life coping skills and parenting skills. The lessons are constructed to be used first by ABE teachers or counselors with the parent and then by parent and child at home. The lessons introduce concepts that a child can learn "naturally" and easily from a parent. In most cases the parents may be learning or reviewing the concept themselves.

REACH AND TEACH: AN EARLY INTERVENTION FAMILY LITERACY MODEL FOR AGENCIES SERVING "AT-RISK" CLIENTS

This project was developed by Pinellas County Schools' Adult and Community Education Department in Clearwater, Florida. The project is designed to improve the parenting and basic skills of educationally at-risk clients in agencies and in the community. Parent/child involvement activities promote physical, social, intellectual development and language growth for young children from birth to five year old. Specific skills for parents focus on reading, writing, computing and problem solving. A facilitator and a parent guide which includes a sample sign-in sheet, evaluation and in-home session forms, a list of children's books and activities for each child's developmental stage are included as well.

()READING TOGETHER

This project, developed at Temple University, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania addresses the challenge of creating a collaborative approach to parental involvement in teaching children and inspiring them in academic achievement. As part of a family literacy program, participants in the study were 19 African-American adolescent parents from low income backgrounds whose children attended an early intervention program. Parents' beliefs about learning and literacy were sought through a series of peer group discussions. The data revealed a continuum of perspectives, indicating that there may be important intragroup variability within a given sociocultural group. The discussions, however, also revealed shared goals that may be used to forge a collaborative relationship between parents and professionals to improve minority children's early education. Illustrations from a family literacy program are used to show how parent beliefs may be incorporated into programmatic changes, building constructive relationships that work toward supporting children's success in schooling.

READING TOGETHER AND TOGETHER WE LEARN: A PARENT INVOLVEMENT PROGRAM

The School Board of Pinellas County in Clearwater, Florida, developed workshop manuals to use to involve families in learning activities. The manuals, Reading Together and Together We Learn, were designed for school administrators, leaders, principals, ABE and early childhood practitioners to help raise the basic education levels of parents and their children. The manuals are divided into eight workshop sessions which include activities for Middle Schools. A myriad of activities (reading aloud, storytelling, puppetry, speaking, book lists, and language development) are included. Most of the activities can be adapted up or down as needed. A family literacy program in coordination with three ABE classes, Head Start families and 27 Chapter I schools were implemented in which the manuals were field tested. The response was overwhelmingly. More than 950 parents and children enrolled in the program and were served by the project.

GENERAL EDUCATIONAL DEVELOPMENT (GED)

COLLEGE AND TECHNICAL HANDBOOK

The Fayette County Community Action Agency, Inc. of Uniontown, Pennsylvania developed a handbook on employment and higher education opportunities in the local area. The handbook is a compilation of local vocational and technical colleges, business schools, their curriculums, degrees offered and entrance information. The handbook lists comprehensive Federal and State financial aid and private grants information. It also provides information and practice worksheets in job search strategy, correspondence for the job search, cover letters, a resume worksheet, and skills for workplace communication.

The College and Technical Handbook offers information that GED Students will need in furthering their education and employment futures. The handbook will be beneficial to public school systems, adult education programs and community-based organizations.

GED AFTER JAIL

This project was developed in Clearfield, Pennsylvania. It addresses the problem of undereducated, unemployed or underemployed former prisoners of the Clearfield County Prison who remain in the county upon release. The project provides individual counseling for prisoners prior to being released from jail, and immediately following their release to help them continue to study for and obtain their GED.

A curriculum packet consisting of: an application and class brochure, a survey of personal life goals, job readiness materials, and evaluation was developed from the project. This informational packet will be of particular interest to GED instructors in county prisons, GED program coordinators, and prison officials looking for alternatives to prison recidivism.

PROJECT RE-ENTRY (A Re-Enrollment Project for GED Students)

This project was conducted by the Tri-County Opportunities Industrialization Center (OIC) in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. Its purpose was to identify the status of Tri-County OIC students who have been labeled non-completers. A non-completer was defined as any student who has taken at least one of the official GED tests, but has not completed the entire test battery, or has completed the test battery but still lacks enough points to be awarded a GED equivalency diploma. In addition, a non-completer is not currently enrolled in a GED class.

This report should be of interest to other adult education organizations that serve large numbers of GED students who have not completed the GED testing process.

TEST TAKING STRATEGIES FOR THE GED CANDIDATE

These monthly seminars were offered by the Erie City School District in Erie, Pennsylvania, in conjunction with the Erie Adult Learning Center, to all people who were preparing to take the GED Test. The seminars explored the areas of: Test taking strategies, the skills necessary to be successful in passing the 5 subject areas included on the GED Test; and the mental and emotional factors involved in the test taking process. Videotapes, hand-outs and group discussion were the methods used by the counselors. Each participants was given a written evaluation of the seminar.

The report of this project contains a curriculum designed to teach test taking skills and strategies to students taking the GED test. The approaches used in this seminar will be useful to other adult educators administering the GED Test.

LIFE SKILLS

EVERYDAY BASIC SKILLS

Everyday Basic Skills was developed by the Tuscarora Intermediate Unit, Adult Education and Job Training Center in Lewistown, Pennsylvania. It is a comprehensive life skills curriculum for literacy and ABE level individuals with an emphasis on the basic skills needed to meet everyday survival issues. The curriculum consists of seven complete and free standing modules that permit flexibility of delivery by classroom instruction, small group instruction and independent study. Reading levels are at the 4th to 8th grade level and allows for the incorporation of existing materials available in the classroom. The seven modules are: basic skills, everyday math, everyday english, social skills, reasoning skills, employability skills, and life and parenting skills.

LITERACY

()COLLABORATIVE LEARNING: AN ALTERNATIVE APPROACH TO ADULT LITERACY INSTRUCTION

This manual, developed in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania discusses ways to incorporate collaborative learning groups into adult education classes. Collaborative learning fosters a more egalitarian relationship between the teacher/facilitator and group learners and encourages greater democracy and participation of group members. Although collaborative learning has been used successfully in other areas of education, it has not been common in adult education. The manual provides answers to the questions adult educators may have who are considering collaborative learning for their classes.

A FUNCTIONAL LITERACY CURRICULUM RESOURCE BOOK - LEVELS 0-4

As a means of providing appropriate instructional materials, this project, conducted by The Center for Literacy in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania developed a curriculum resource book. The resource book includes 12 topics with suggested lessons for each topic. Lessons are correlated with the Laubach Way to Reading series and are designed for use by trained volunteer reading tutors. Sample lessons and lesson suggestions are meant to be adapted for individual students needs, goals, and interests; however, sample lessons can be used directly with students.

LITERACY DRAMA: USING PLAYS IN ADULT LITERACY EDUCATION

This literacy drama was developed by Portland Community College in Portland, Oregon. It is a collection of five plays which can be used with low level and special needs classes. The plays are written at a low level and provide students the opportunity to raise questions, analyze and discuss issues, and examine cultural beliefs. Each play contains ideas and suggestions for use. The book also contains chapters on production, ideas for using drama in the classroom, and additional readings.

MATHEMATICS FOR THE 90'S: TOWARD A NEW PERSPECTIVE

This project was developed by the Mt. Hood Community College in Gresham, Oregon. Its major objective was to design a curriculum for ABE math which emphasizes critical-thinking, problem solving, use of technology, and writing rather than drill and practice. The product provides practical exercises\activities using written and oral language, technology and life-skills. It also serves as a basis for training staff to alter attitudes about math, broaden the curricula and more effectively bridge math in the classroom with math in the workplace.

()PERSONAL MANAGEMENT: AN INTEGRATED CURRICULUM

St[illegible]t the Adult Basic Education and Literacy Educators Network of Washington produced this project. It is one part of a larger curriculum that provides activities for interpersonal, thinking, and communications skills for adult learners. This integrated curriculum addresses different learning and teaching styles by offering five ways to present a lesson on personal management: Reflective, Interactive, Problem Posing, Talking, and Content Based. It centers on self-esteem, goal setting, creating and maintaining personal motivation, and pursuing personal and career development. Learning objectives and worksheets are also provided for activities in the handbook.

PROJECT P.R.O.U.D (People Reading Their Own Unique Dictation)

This Pennsylvania project was designed to focus on the problems associated with book-centered, one-to-one tutoring to help adults learn to read. The problems that the project sought to eliminate were uninteresting, non pertinent materials; focus on single skills rather than reading as communication; lack of learner-centered, self-worth attitudes; and feelings of being a one-of-a-kind non reader. The project staff trained tutors in the language experience approach and designed appropriate accompanying exercises. The tutors then had students dictate stories concerning their experiences, knowledge, and concerns. Students then worked through these stories and exercises. Tutors submitted the stories and exercises to Mid-State Literacy Council for grouping according to reading level, editing, and publication in a set of six books. The six books that contain students' language experience stories with accompanying skill exercises and comprehension questions were developed for adult students at the 0-4 reading level, including non-English speaking adults.

WIDENING HORIZONS: A GUIDE TO ORGANIZING FIELD TRIPS FOR ADULT STUDENTS

The Women's Program of Lutheran Settlement House in Pennsylvania developed and field tested a guide on organizing field trips for adult learners. This step by step guide is based on the premise that field trips are important links between the classroom and the real world, and they provide a forum for development of higher level thinking skills based on concrete, actual events and activities. Information in the guide includes topics such as ideas for trips related to subject matter, sample rules, overcoming barriers to participation, before and after sample educational activities, and a sample letter to potential agencies.

OLDER PERSONS

DEVELOPING SUCCESSFUL ADULT BASIC EDUCATION PROGRAMS FOR OLDER ADULTS

This guide was developed by Randolph Community College in Asheboro, North Carolina to assist adult educators in planning and implementing successful ABE programs for undereducated adults 55 years of age and over. The first five sections deal with the psychosocial aspects of aging, followed by three sections on the basic education needs and interests of older adults. A basic skills interest indicator resource guide, a curriculum materials resource guide and references of related services are included in the last sections of this guide. The guide for curriculum materials includes topics of interest to older adults as handwriting, legal services, banking, newspaper, health and insurance. The reading levels of the suggested materials range from 0-8 grade.

This project, conducted by the Florida Council on Aging, developed a process model to train literacy volunteers to work with older persons. It is a systematic model, sequentially staged to engage tutors in the inservice process over a sustained period of time. Although primarily designed for tutors, the model is also applicable to learners, to assist them in becoming responsible for their own learning. Two resource documents were also compiled from this project.

SENIOR LIFE SKILLS/FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT

The Tuscarora Intermediate Unit in Pennsylvania developed and field tested a life skills/financial management training packet and curriculum. This will give senior citizens an opportunity to increase their basic education math and reading skills. The packet addresses the specific needs of the elderly with regard to computation and communications skills to better equip them to handle their financial and personal affairs. In large print, the curriculum includes topics on assertiveness training, stress management, financial management, living wills and trends, decision-making, making changes, and consumer protection information.

ADULT LITERACY LEADERSHIP TRAINING PROJECT REPORT

Phase II of Florida's Adult Literacy Leadership Training Project involved a study of education and training activities for adult literacy providers. The purpose was to provide a framework for upgrading the education and skills of literacy professionals. This study resulted in a report in two volumes. Volume I, Toward the Development of a Comprehensive Education and Training Model for Florida's Adult Literacy Leadership, presents background for staff development and training activities and general guidelines for a program evaluation design. Volume II, Fundamental Considerations in the Conceptualization and Design of Adult Literacy Staff Development and Training, explains the study methodology, the research findings and conclusions, and the recommended framework for training adult literacy professionals.

()ASSESSING THE NEED, ACCEPTABILITY, AND AVAILABLE RESOURCES FOR ADULT LITERACY STAFF DEVELOPMENT THROUGH DISTANCE EDUCATION IN RURAL PENNSYLVANIA AND RECOMMENDED MODELS TO MEET THE NEEDS

This academic study assesses the need of distance education in rural areas, such as those in Pennsylvania, and provides recommendations for acquiring the technology needed. A description of distance learning is examined, and then recommended as a means to overcome difficulties with staff training in rural areas. Many Adult Educators are volunteers, and the travel time and expense is a cumbersome obstacle when providing training workshops. An appendix discusses the different aspects of distance learning, giving examples from other communities. Programs interested in developing and implementing distance learning in rural locations may find this study useful.

The final report of the Staff Development Activities for Region 4 in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania discusses the use of mini-grants offered to educators. The mini-grants encourage creativity and innovation in the classroom by promoting more effective instruction. This project encourages teachers to perform independent and practical research, to implement innovative teaching methods, and to produce creative new materials for the classroom. Support staff may also apply for mini-grants, to explore new intake procedures or teaching methods. In addition, the report discusses the types of workshops held, based on survey results from a staff development needs assessment. An evaluation of the project was completed, with recommendations to adjust the needs assessment to produce more effective workshops based on specialized needs. Other adult literacy programs may find the evaluation recommendations, the needs assessment survey, and the information on the mini-grants helpful for their programs.

TEACHER EDUCATION

ADULT BASIC SKILLS INSTRUCTOR TRAINING MANUAL

This trainer's manual resulted from a three-year project to develop a cadre of adult basic skills instructor trainers who could meet the training and staff development needs of local service providers. The project was housed at Appalachian State University. Seventy-one instructor competencies in four curriculum areas were developed: communications with adult learners, assessing and diagnosing learners' strengths and weaknesses, selecting appropriate methodologies and materials, and evaluation. Approaches for English as a Second Language are included in a separate section on methods in language arts. The manual provides suggestions on principles and teaching methods under various subject headings and contains sections on related instructional and reading materials. Materials in the handbook have been used in regional workshops and summer training institutes at Appalachian State University.

ARIZONA ADULT EDUCATION MANUAL

This manual was designed for adult education teachers in Arizona. It contains practical information about adult education and literacy programs in the State, including sections on GED preparation and ESL. It provides tips on assessment, curriculum development, classroom objectives, teaching methods, and evaluation as general information. The sections on record keeping, textbooks, computers and citizenship/amnesty provide important references for teachers in the program. Overall, the manual is a useful source of information for new and experienced teachers alike. Although the demographics and particular administrative procedures refer to Arizona, the organization and general contents on teaching tips make it useful for other geographical areas.

MARYLAND'S ADULT PERFORMANCE PROGRAM (MAPP): INSTRUCTIONAL COMPONENT

This project of the Montgomery County Public Schools is a continuation of the development and implementation of Maryland's statewide competency based program, Project MAPP. Earlier projects focused on the assessment, instruction and management/guidance components. As a result of a statewide evaluation of the Instructional program, some refinements and revisions were made in the materials. This latest project effort incorporated necessary changes based on the evaluation and produced teacher references and training materials:

()MATH LITERACY

This mathematics curriculum was developed by the Center for Literacy, Inc., in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Its purpose was to support instruction aimed at increasing students' understanding of math and their ability to use math in their everyday lives. The Learner's Handbook contains seven units on various mathematics subjects, including using a calculator, estimating numbers, graphs and charts, measurement, and math games. The Teacher's Guide includes lesson plans with suggested hands-on activities and discussion topics for classroom use.

()MORE THAN THE SUM OF THE PARTS: USING SMALL GROUP LEARNING IN ADULT BASIC EDUCATION

The staff at the Center on Education and Training for Employment, College of Education, Ohio State University developed this publication. This 83-page document was designed to help teachers and administrators initiate the small group learning approach into the field of adult education and literacy. The seven chapters in the publication include information on the advantages and disadvantages of small group learning; tips for managing small group learning; preparing lesson plans; staff development; and activities that can be used to develop the literacy and numeracy skills of adult learners. Also, Appendices A and B include additional resources and an ERIC Digest on "Managing Your Professional Development: A Guide for Part-time Teachers of Adults."

SUMMARY OF CERTIFICATION REQUIREMENTS FOR ADULT EDUCATION TEACHERS IN THE STATES

The Arizona Adult Education Committee and representatives from Region 6 Adult Staff Development Consortium prepared a summary list of State certification requirements. The requirements were taken in part from the Study of ABE/ESL Instructor Training Approaches, State Profiles Report that was conducted in 1991 by Pelavin Associates, Inc. The summary provides current certification requirements for staff development activities.

TEACHERS, TOOLS AND TECHNIQUES: A HANDBOOK FOR ADULT BASIC EDUCATION AND GED INSTRUCTION

This handbook for adult education and literacy teachers was developed in Des Plaines, Illinois. It offers a range of strategies for classroom instruction and indepth information about other selected topics such as the GED test, professional organizations, and publications. The introductory chapter on the Adult Learner incorporates adult learner characteristics, theory and principles about retention and motivation, learning styles, learning disabilities, and cultural issues. The section on classroom management includes discussion about multilevel classes and cooperative learning. The chapters on reading, mathematics and writing provide

TEACHING WRITING

BASIC WRITING SKILLS - A SEQUENTIAL OBJECTIVE BASED PROGRAM FOR USE IN ABE AND GED PREP CLASSES

A sequence of ten units or learning packets, each with its own specific measurable learning objective, was developed at the Highline Community College in Des Moines, Washington. It was designed to help students master the language arts skills essential for the writing skills portion of the GED examination. Each of the ten units consists of four parts: a pre-test, an explanation of the concept, student exercises, and a post-test. The format used is especially suitable for students who are working independently at their own pace. However, instructor assistance is recommended to help students understand their mistakes and apply the rules presented.

()CRITICAL THINKING THROUGH THE WRITING PROCESS

This curriculum guide, developed in Spokane, Washington, assists instructors and students with improving student scores on the GED Writing Skills Test. The curriculum uses a critical thinking approach to teaching writing skills. Students are introduced to grammar after they have learned critical thinking skills, practiced some writing, and developed confidence in their writing abilities. The guide includes activities, lesson plans, suggestions for writing topics, and practice exercises.

INTRODUCING WRITING TO GED/ABE STUDENTS

The purpose of this professional development package, developed at the University of New Mexico in Albuquerque is to assist GED instructors in developing teaching skills which will help them prepare students for the written essay part of the GED exam. Research and educators experiences indicate that the thinking/writing required are most efficiently and effectively communicated through collaborative learning situations where dialogue or discussion expose individuals to different ways of looking at topics. The accompanying video provides an opportunity to observe other GED instructors and tutors working with this process.

LEARNING ABOUT PEOPLE: A CULTURAL WRITING EXPERIENCE (STUDENT MANUAL)

This set of materials for a cultural writing curriculum for adult basic education students (5-8 grade level) was developed in Pennsylvania. It consists of a teacher's guide and student manual (videotape and an audiocassette complete the set). The materials are intended to develop the adult learners' writing and reading competencies through their active involvement with the cultural heritage of their community, accomplished by conducting interviews with community members. The 11 lessons, or steps, are designated by the letters A through K and

PUBLISHING AN ANTHOLOGY OF ADULT STUDENT WRITING: A PARTNERSHIP FOR LITERACY

The main objectives of this Pennsylvania project were to conduct a writing contest for adult basic education/high school equivalency/English as a Second Language (ABE/GED/ESL) and basic literacy students and to publish an anthology of selected prose (fiction and non-fiction) and poetry entries by those students. Secondary objectives were to promote a greater public awareness of ABE/basic literacy programs and to encourage cross-membership and involvement of adult and K-college English teachers. This report is a step-by-step description of the anthology project. Extensive appendices to the report contain the following items: rules and guidelines, evaluative criteria for judging student writing, cover letter, student consent form, anthology postscript, anthology preface, annotated bibliography, model of the writing project, a list of participating programs and staff members, and samples of public relations material generated or received by the project.

ADULT EDUCATION THROUGH TECHNOLOGY PROJECT

Odessa College, in Odessa, Texas, used computers, videos, audio, print media, seminars, and workshops to provide enriched curriculum concerning workplace competencies to JOBS clients. Participants were also furnished information concerning jobs. Project participants used computers and videos to study workplace math, English, reading, social skills, reasoning skills, values, employability skills and vocational training requirements. They were encouraged to use these tools to explore their aptitudes, interests and learning styles as they worked on their academic skills. The project developed a manual for adult educators that contains a description of the technology model and its implementation. The manual includes specifics on how to replicate the program.

DEVELOPMENT OF AN IN-PLANT MICROCOMPUTER LITERACY LAB

The Northwest Tri-County Unit in Edinboro, Pennsylvania developed this curriculum to supply ABE and GED students with software and instruction in word processing, spreadsheets, and databases. Microsoft Work provides the basis of the programming since it encompasses all three of the desired components and interfaces well with the IBM microcomputer. Products resulting from this project include lesson plans for teachers wishing to use word processing, spreadsheets, and databases to instruct reading, writing, or math basic skills. This project directly benefits both adult students and their instructors by providing a simplified outline for both of them to follow while acquiring the Microsoft Program techniques.

A TRAINING MANUAL FOR THE IMPLEMENTATION OF COMPUTER-ASSISTED ADULT LITERACY DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMS

This manual was developed by The Temple University Center for Research in Human Development and Education to assist literacy providers in implementing individually tailored literacy programs for adults. The program is designed with an adaptive instructional approach which uses classroom instruction, small groups, individual tutoring and computer assisted instruction. The major focus is to train literacy providers in integrating a computer assisted instruction component into the adult literacy program.

Discussed in the manual are topics such as: Awareness workshops, planning for implementation and technical assistance, delivery of literacy training, assessment of program implementation, and documentation/evaluation of training.

USING SHAREWARE IN ADULT EDUCATION

The Tri-County Opportunities Industrialization Center, Inc. in Pennsylvania reviewed 43 pieces of shareware to determine its instructional quality and appropriateness for adult learners. A manual was compiled to assist instructors in selecting shareware. Each shareware package includes: subject area, description of the content, the evaluation summary, applicability to adult learners, hints to teachers, ordering information, and information on how to use the shareware package.

()WHAT DOES THAT MEAN? AN INTRODUCTION TO AMERICAN IDIOMS

Staff at the South Hills Literacy Improvement Center in Bethel Park, Pennsylvania, developed a video and a student study guide concerning the meaning and use of 25 commonly used American idioms. An explanation is provided for each idiom along with a graphic depiction of the correct and incorrect use of the phrase, pattern drills and a note taking section for the students to write their questions. The study guide is especially helpful for English as a Second Language classes.

COMMERCIAL DRIVER'S LICENSE BASIC SKILLS ENHANCEMENT TRAINEE AND TRAINER'S MANUALS

Jefferson County Public Schools Adult Education Unit, Louisville, Kentucky, wrote and field tested a workplace literacy curriculum to help truck drivers improve their basic skills in order to pass the federally mandated Commercial Driver's License Examination. The information in the Trainee's manual was taken from the Kentucky Commercial Driver's License Manual. Teaching practices for basic skills are combined with work site observations, assessment, and evaluation. The workplace artifacts (manuals, forms, etc.) used in the curriculum are generic in content for commercial drivers.

The trainer's manual describes both a process for conducting commercial driver license workplace literacy and contextual lessons to be used within the process. Assessments, worksheets, and information sheets correspond to the lesson plans in the curriculum.

EMPLOYABILITY: CAREER DEVELOPMENT FOR UNDEREDUCATED ADULTS IN ABE PROGRAMS

The Career Development for Undereducated Adults materials were prepared by the Portland Community College in collaboration with the Northwest Regional Educational Laboratory. The materials are designed to help adult basic education teachers build and assess student career development, occupational needs, and to link assessment to instruction. Higher level material is included in some cases when it is especially valuable as a resource. The materials are based on the Comprehensive Adult Student Assessment system (CASAS) list of occupational knowledge competencies. Several noteworthy recommendations are included: ABE programs should be encouraged to fund more staff development activities that involve working with and integrating instructional materials into the curriculum, more instructional materials should be targeted to specific populations such as corrections, dislocated workers, new job clients, and materials should reflect current topics and situations appropriate for adults.

PROCEDURES TO ASSESS WORKPLACE LITERACY TRAINING NEEDS

A procedural manual was developed by the Minnesota Teamsters Service Bureau in Minneapolis. This manual contains step-by-step strategies for analyzing workplace literacy training needs through collaborative union, business, Adult Basic Education (ABE), and worker partnerships. The manual stresses the critical importance of worker involvement in all aspects of program development from initial planning to the eventual delivery and evaluation of training. It also addresses the following steps in developing high quality and cost effective training programs: establishing the foundation for collaboration, assessing workplace literacy training needs, designing workplace literacy training programs, and assuring meaningful worker participation. It is intended for use by any group or organization interested in establishing workplace literacy training programs.

WORKFORCE GADSDEN: BRIDGING THE GAP

The Workforce Gadsden project established a partnership between the Gadsden County Florida School System's Adult and Community Education Program and the County Chamber of Commerce. Its goal was to provide workplace literacy training to small and medium-sized businesses and governmental departments. The final report provides examples of products (including business and industry needs analysis surveys, a marketing/informational pamphlet, lists of materials sent to area businesses, advisory council minutes, publicity, etc.) used to promote community awareness of the need for work-related basic skills training. The report also discusses the practices (key partnership and program components such as staff development and support services, an evaluation of project objectives and outcomes, etc.) used to provide technical assistance and training to address these needs.
